

Construction Work To Resume At College Today

Ironworkers To Name New Job Steward

By Robert Stewart

A JOINT announcement made by the unions and the contractor late Saturday said the workmen, who walked off the sites of the new Science Building and Women's Dormitory building on the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College campus, will return to their jobs this morning.

In addition, the announcement stated that a new Ironworkers' job steward would be appointed by that local's business agent.

The decision was reached after Samuel Sackman, of the state Department of Labor and Industry's Mediation Service, managed, after several hours of negotiations, to achieve mutual agreement between the parties during a meeting held at Place's Beach Club, Shawnee-on-Deleware.

Attending the meeting were George Wilson, business agent for the Building Trades Council; Robert Moyer, business agent for the Ironworkers Local 36, Easton; Boyd H. Kline, Bloomsburg contractor; Harold Flisk, Kline's superintendent on the two projects; Robert A. Linn, a member of the Kline firm; George Leffler, chief engineer of District Five, General State Authority, and Sackman.

The meeting began shortly after 2 p.m. in a cottage at the Beach Club, after Wilson, Moyer and Sackman arrived to talk to Kline who was attending the District Five, GSA picnic there.

Review of Details

Sackman opened the discussion by asking for a review of the details leading to the differences incurred between the union and Kline.

Wilson told of the July 24 meeting held at ESSTC which was mediated by A. J. Caruso, head of GSA, and said that, while the Building Trades Council had agreed to forewarn all picketing of the site in the future without informing all parties involved, the move by the Ironworkers was an unilateral action, taken by themselves after the following incident:

Robert Clarkson, job steward for the Ironworkers at the two sites, was discharged by the Kline firm on Friday, Aug. 14, without fully informing Moyer of the move. The firing was done by Flisk, Wilson said.

Wilson then said if Kline had informed Moyer the entire situation, including the picketing of the sites for one-half day by the Ironworkers, would have been avoided.

Kline then said he had informed Flisk to phone Moyer and tell him of the action, but Flisk said he possibly misunderstood and did not inform Moyer.

Kline then said he had told Clarkson at the July 24 meeting of his intent to get rid of him if he did not do more work.

Asking again for a review of the situation, Sackman asked how many workers were affected by the situation, and he was told between 40 and 45 men were involved.

Returning to the situation, Sackman was told by Wilson that the job by the Ironworkers could not be continued without the presence of their job steward, therefore the union had placed the pickets on the job. They were taken off at noon Tuesday, Wilson said.

Wilson then asked Kline how much time he spent at each particular job in which his company was engaged in working. Kline replied he spent two or three hours every several weeks. Wilson asked him if this were the case, how he could possibly tell, with such a short observation, that the man in question was not working. Kline said the spotting of such a man was easy.

Kline then said he was told by Flisk, when they discussed the projected firing of Clarkson, that the firm would "have a terrible time" if Clarkson were fired, considering the fact the man was the job steward.

Wilson said Kline had the right to fire whom he wished, but in the case of the job steward he was obligated to inform the business agent in order that another job steward might be appointed immediately. "This would have saved us all a lot of trouble," Wilson said.

"At all times there must be a job steward at the site working," Wilson informed Kline.

Distributing Checks

Wilson then said Flisk was trying to go beyond the authority of the Ironworkers foremen, and Flisk denied this. But, Flisk said, he had been distributing the pay checks to the men which was a normal function of the foremen. Flisk said his reason for this was that he could not search out the individual foremen and ask them to deliver six or seven checks to their particular crews. It would be too time consuming, he said.

Moyer then said that there were several small incidents

Rockefellers Fly To New York

SOEGNE, Norway (AP) — Steven Rockefeller and his storybook Norwegian bride left by plane for New York Sunday. It was three years ago to the day that Steven's wife, Anna Marie, left Norway to be a maid in the home of the wealthy Rockefellers.

Aboard the plane were Steven's parents, Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller and other members of the Rockefeller family who came for Saturday's wedding.

Steven and Anne Marie said farewell to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kristian Rasmussen, at the airport.

Sharp Jolt Starts New Rock Slide

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (AP) — A sharp jolt early Sunday touched off another rock slide just above damaged Hegeben Dam and blocked a forest road leading to about 20 summer homes.

The police department in this small resort town said it doubted if there were any people in the cabins on the southwest edge of Hegeben Lake.

"I think they all packed up and left when this business started," a police officer said.

He added that the jolt was sharp enough to wake up every one in West Yellowstone, including a party of seven congressmen from Washington and other federal officials. They arrived Saturday for a helicopter inspection of this still quivering section of southwestern Montana.

Same Tremor

The same tremor at 1:30 a.m. was felt at Old Faithful in Yellowstone National Park. A ranger there described it as "a pretty good jolt. It woke us up, but so far as I know, no damage was reported in the park."

At park headquarters at Mammoth, rangers said no one reported feeling tremors.

Meanwhile, the party from Washington viewed additional damage from last Monday's and Tuesday's earthquakes as they went by automobile from West Yellowstone to Bozeman. The party boarded a DC-3 at Bozeman for the flight to Billings where they took a Convair for Washington.

Montana Gov. J. Hugo Aronson said he is considering declaring this section of Montana a disaster area.

In addition to the nine known dead and one missing and presumed dead, at least seven other persons are not accounted for.

Asst. Regional Forester Harvey Robe of Missoula told the visiting congressmen there "are an uncertain number of bodies in that slide."

Rebels Strike In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Communist rebels have made a surprise strike in central Laos and forced government troops out of two points protecting this administrative capital's communications with the south, reliable sources said Sunday.

The informants said government troops withdrew from a military and police post near Pak Sane, 60 miles east of Vientiane, after fighting a battle of several hours Saturday.

Six Convicts Escape From Penitentiary

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP) — Six convicts saved their way out of the state penitentiary here Sunday morning after overpowering four guards during church services.

Four of the fugitives were captured before noon, three of them in the home of a Fort Madison minister where they had held the minister's wife, her three children and a 17-year-old neighbor boy at knife point for 2 1/2 hours.

The other two remained at large. A house-to-house search of the area was under way for them.

The trio was surprised in the minister's home by Bernard Nelson, deputy prison warden, who crawled in a basement window and crept up the stairs. They surrendered without resistance.

Fourth Capture

A fourth escapee was caught by prison officials in a wooded area near the prison shortly after the escape, which occurred about 9 a.m.

The two fugitives still at large were identified as Arlie Harrison Elliot, a tall blond youth, and Charles Robert Wallerick, an Indian. Both were serving 10-year terms, Elliot for robbery and Wallerick for larceny.

Captured were Ronald Clark Bessler, serving 10 years for larceny of a motor vehicle; Samuel Parras, 26 years for robbery and jailbreak; Charles W. Carlyle, 10 years for breaking and entering; and Wilbur Bihain, 10 years for forgery.

It was the second break from the prison here in less than three months. Four convicts saved their way out of their cells on June 3 and were recaptured the next day near Albia, Iowa.

"This is damned embarrassing," Warden John Bennett said. "After the last break they knew they can saw through the windows. I have asked time and again for new windows, and haven't gotten them yet."

Three of the convicts showed up shortly after the escape at the home of the Rev. William W. Swift, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church here.

The home is in the Black Hawk Heights area, which is less than a mile from the prison. The Rev. Mr. Smith was away conducting services at St. Luke's and a misfortune broke in was, "Have you got a gun in the house?" Mrs. Swift said. "They didn't harm us, but I'm sure glad we didn't have a gun in the house."

Mrs. Swift was at home alone at the time with her three children, Olivia, 5; Bill, 3, and Charles, 10 weeks.

Shortly after the convicts arrived Robert Thomas Jr., 17, a neighbor boy, called Mrs. Swift on the telephone. He said he had heard of the escape and wanted to help protect her and her family.

"The convicts had a kitchen knife in my back and made me tell him to come on over," she related. "They made him stay in the house with us. I didn't panic because they told me they would give themselves up before they would hurt me and the children."

Eight Die In Jersey Prison Fire

TOMS RIVER, N.J. (AP) — A fire and explosion wrecked the overcrowded Ocean County jail Sunday, killing eight prisoners and injuring 12 other people.

One of the victims was serving 90 days for disorderly conduct. The others were awaiting disposition of a variety of charges, including rape, murder, larceny and forgery.

They were among 65 prisoners crowded into the two-story jail with a recommended capacity of 28.

The blaze broke out in a padded cell where one prisoner was placed Saturday on a drunkenness charge after he had ripped apart a cell in the local jail in nearby Lakewood.

He was burned to death. The other victims died of asphyxiation in a second-floor wing where jail guards and firemen tried vainly to reach them.

A fight among several prisoners on the first floor preceded the fire. Guards were trying to break it up when the fire erupted.

Rock Building

About five minutes later, an explosion rocked the building, blowing four firemen down the stairs leading to the second floor.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined. Sheriff Harry Roe said matches are taken away from all prisoners put in the padded cell, a separate chamber which moves on rollers in the second-floor corridor.

Roe said foam rubber in the padded cell caused a combustion wave when it caught fire. This apparently was the explosion.

The 12 injured were taken to Paul Kimball Hospital in Lakewood. Three were released after treatment.

The nine detained included three women prisoners, one male prisoner, four firemen and a Navy sailor visiting his father across the street from the jail. He was felled trying to fight the blaze.

The fire burned for about an hour and a half in the concrete building faced with red brick. The structure was built originally in the late 1800s and rebuilt in 1925.

At least five fire departments from surrounding communities came to the scene. As many first aid squads also pitched in to help. Their efforts to revive the dead prisoners were to no avail.

Undersheriff Robert J. Miller, 35, was moving his lawn at the home. He was called to the jail and arrived to find it ablaze.

The explosion knocked him down, too, and in the confusion he lost the keys to cell doors. He broke into the sheriff's office got another set of keys from the safe and returned to release all prisoners on the first floor.

Investigations

The county prosecutor's office, State police and the State Department of Institutions and Agencies immediately started investigations.

Roe said the prisoner in the padded cell was General Petersen, 35, of Philadelphia, a Negro arrested Saturday on a drunk and disorderly charge in Lakewood.

"We've had him in here before," the sheriff said. "When he gets drunk, he goes berserk. He was supposed to go to another institution only this afternoon."

One of the known dead is Richard Caviler, 22, charged with the murder of his 22-month-old daughter.

Toms River is about 20 miles south of Asbury Park. It's a quiet town with tree-shaded streets and played an important part in the Revolutionary War as a port and site of a salt works.

The other victims included: Stephen J. Wolf Jr., 30, of 96 S. Jackson Ave., Manasquan; Thomas A. Hughes, 38, of 1242 N. Leopard St., Philadelphia; Wilson C. Letts, 19, of Rock Rd., Cedar Run, N.J.; Adam Bodziam, 42, of 31 S. Kentucky St., Atlantic City, N.J.; William C. Lehman, 21, sailor stationed with Helicopter Squadron 2 at nearby Lakehurst Naval Air Station.

$11-Million Figure Set On Highway Work

(Record Harrisburg Bureau) HARRISBURG — More than $11 million has been spent on state highways in Monroe County during the past five years. The Daily Record Harrisburg Bureau learned yesterday in a check with the State Department of Highways.

This figure — actually $11,089,654 — involves construction and reconstruction work performed by either departmental employees or contractors, resurfacing of existing roads within the county, and maintenance work on highways in the county including snow removal, cinderling, oiling, weed cutting, patching and similar maintenance chores.

Biggest year on the highway expenditure front in Monroe County was 1956, according to department figures. In that year expenditures totaled $2,458,051. Expenditures in other years in the county were as follows: 1954 — $1,923,254; 1955 — $2,213,925; 1957 — $2,272,614, and last year — $2,221,810.

Last year construction and reconstruction work in the county involved expenditure of $1,554,346; resurfacing work, $79,385, and maintenance, including snow removal and surface treatment, $588,078.

As a point of comparison, the preceding year showed construction and reconstruction work in the county at $1,481,388; resurfacing — $72,345, and maintenance — $715,979.

The five-year $11,089,654 expenditure figure for the county indicatively does not include direct semi-annual payments to communities within the county under terms of Act 655, the "Home Rule Act," which covers state funds to cities, boroughs and townships for their own road work.

In the past five years this has totaled $1,819,689, the department said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators on opposite sides of the fight over civil rights legislation said Sunday the battle may delay the adjournment of Congress for weeks.

"The adjournment rush is on," said Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.) "but I have a suspicion that it may turn out to be one of the most protracted windups in recent congressional history."

While many members are talking of ending the session before Labor Day, Keating said he thinks it may be closer to Oct. 1.

In predicting this, he noted that he has announced plans to try to hook a broad civil rights measure onto a Southern-backed peanut bill. Steps to carry out similar strategy have been taken by Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo.).

Long Debate

Keating said that once the civil rights issue is joined, he feels it is sure to stir up long drawn out debate and delay adjournment.

From Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) came a warning to his colleagues that they might as well give up hope of adjournment even by mid-September if they try to pass any such civil rights programs as Keating and Hennings have proposed.

"For my own part, I am prepared to remain in Washington and to participate in Senate debate until January of next year if it becomes necessary," Ellender said in a broadcast recorded for a New Orleans radio station.

Civil rights legislation has been bottled up in the Senate Judiciary Committee by Chairman James O. Eastland (D-Miss) and other Southern opponents, but the issue could be forced to a showdown by the Hennings and Keating maneuvers.

Their strategy is to bypass the committee by offering civil rights bills as amendments to other legislation called up for action in the Senate.

NEW YORK (AP) — The chief industry negotiator said Sunday the steel strike will be settled "only when there is a meeting of minds on a solid basis."

Negotiations resume today.

R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice president of United States Steel Corp., who appeared on the WCBS-TV program, "New York Forum," disagreed with a panelist's suggestion that a nonpartisan, fact-finding committee could aid in settling the strike, now in its sixth week, which has idled half a million United Steelworkers of America.

Cooper said industry and union negotiators are well acquainted with the facts in the case "and we don't need anyone else to tell us the facts."

Information Carried In Three Letters

BONN, Germany (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has reminded Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in a personal letter that the Russians still want to end the occupation regime in Berlin, authoritative informants reported Sunday.

These informants said Khrushchev made the same point in similar messages to British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French President Charles de Gaulle.

West German officials confirmed the letter to Adenauer was delivered at the Foreign Office Wednesday by Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov. They would not make the contents public.

Informants said the tone of the Khrushchev letter was moderate but firm.

In other developments, Khrushchev may be the big boss in the Soviet Union, but as premier he's only the head of government, not chief of state.

As a result of this technical distinction, Washington officialdom is putting together something less than the most to greet the Soviet Premier when he arrives Sept. 15.

Red Carpet

Khrushchev will step onto a red carpet after his Russian jetliner alights at Washington National Airport. But the trimmings won't be as fancy as they would be if he were King Nikita or President Khrushchev.

Here's what comrade Khrushchev will be missing under the nice rules of protocol because he is only first minister, instead of king or president:

1. The ceremonial troops at the airport will fire off a mere 13-gun salute, not a 21-round one.

2. President Eisenhower can meet Khrushchev at the White House instead of journeying out to the airport to greet him.

3. Khrushchev will get a free ride in a motorcade to the President's guest house, but not an official ceremonial procession. That means the route will not be decked with American, Soviet and District of Columbia flags, for instance, and government workers are not likely to be given time off to line the route.

4. He could get only one official lunch instead of dinner at the White House. This is optional, however, and actual plans are for a White House dinner on the night of his arrival.

Khrushchev in turn can take things a bit easier officially because of being a mere government head. He does not, for example, have to give a dinner for Eisenhower in return.

Dinner Expected

However, diplomatic sources said they expect Khrushchev will serve up a full course dinner for the President the following night.

A third ceremonial meal, usually tendered by the secretary of state or the vice president, is apparently out because of shortness of time. Khrushchev will be in the capital only two days before setting off on a week's tour of the country and on his second day here the National Press Club has him booked for lunch.

GETTYSBURG (AP) — With bowed head, President Eisenhower heard a Negro minister pray Sunday that his journey to distant places may lead some day to "peace on the earth."

Rain forced the President to stop a golf match but didn't keep him and Mrs. Eisenhower from attending Gettysburg Presbyterian church on the last day of his vacation.

Q. My husband retired 20 years ago and is now 75. I am 68. We own our own home and have a wonderful life in a delightful country village. We have about $40,000 in investments (mostly mutual funds) and $6,000 in savings and checking accounts.

In each of the past 10 years my husband has received about $3,000 in royalties from three art books. (He was a commercial artist.) But, as you know, royalties are not too dependable.

So far, we have not spent any of our investment principal. Do you think the time has come for us to start spending our capital?

A. This is a tough one. If I understand your problems, it would seem that you are able to get along nicely on the income from your investments, the interest on your savings account and the royalties.

If that's the case, the answer is no. Keep enjoying the same full life you have to date. Don't start eating into what money you have. You might find yourselves very short of cash very late in life. Remember that each dollar of capital you spend means that you will have one less dollar working for you.

However, if your present income leaves you a little pinched for cash, then start using up your capital as slowly as possible. It doesn't make much sense to hold on to investments and keep money in banking accounts when you need money.

The suspicious pops up that you have some additional source of income you don't mention—perhaps from some work your husband still does.

I would be able to give a better answer to your question in another year or so, after Prentice-Hall publishes the book I am struggling to put together and I have some experience with royalties.

Q. My mother is 75 years old and a widow. She has a considerable amount of money in a checking account and a monthly income of over $750. I have suggested that she put most of the money in her checking account to work in a conservative mutual fund.

She agrees that buying mutual fund shares would be ideal. But others in the family discourage her from investing because of her age.

Regardless of my explanation that inflation is reducing the purchasing power of her money, the others have her convinced that a bank is the place to keep it. They advise her to put her money in a savings account. Your opinion might enlighten the others that age isn't or shouldn't be, the deciding factor in investing.

A. Stop trying to write the answer for me. Age has a great deal to do with investment decisions. Maybe it should be the deciding factor in your mother's case.

Certainly, no one would advise her to keep the biggest part of her money in a checking account (where it draws no interest) when she can get interest from an insured savings account.

But whether or not she wants to invest in any kind of securities is a cow of a different grade of milk.

She evidently has enough income to live comfortably the rest of her days. A long-term investment in good mutual fund shares will more than likely outpace inflation. But, with an income of $750 a month and a fat cushion of money in the bank, your mother doesn't have too much to fret about as far as inflation is concerned.

It seems to me that you and "the others" are more concerned about what kind of an estate your mother will leave. If I'm wrong, I apologize. If I'm right, shame on you.

Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.

NPDC Requests Speedy Building Of Projects

THE NORTHEAST Pennsylvania Development Commission is impressed with the state's position on the region highway program, but is asking that the Highway Department consider the "chronic distressed status of the region" in speedy construction of all projects.

Victor C. Diehm, NPDC president, said in a weekend statement that creation of employment is the basic objective of the commission—amid a pool of 75,000 idle workers—and that both highway construction and future industrial employment would result from early authorization and contract letting.

vania delegation met with Highways Secretary Park H. Martin last Tuesday to spur regional highway activity authorized under the federal interstate and defense highway system.

The chief highways involved are the Keystone Shortway, Penn-Can Highway and the Anthracite Expressway.

Martin told the group that about 90 miles of the Shortway from Crescent Lake, Monroe County, to White Deer, Union County, would be put under construction as soon as final plans and funds are available.

Construction of the Anthracite Expressway will begin in 1961, Martin said.

It was during a heated exchange between Wilson and Kline that the union official accused Kline of trying to foment jurisdictional trouble between several of the unions regarding the erection of a "skip hoist" on the job.

Kline denied this, and Sackman managed to have this matter dropped.

It was at this point that Sackman took the contractor and the union representatives aside and talked with them in private.

Speaks For Himself

If Senate-House conferees agree on a tougher labor reform bill than union chieftains had hoped for, not a small amount of the responsibility must be laid to the threats of political reprisal sent out to some 300 congressmen by a vice president of the AFL-CIO.

The conferees—some of them at least—are reported aroused by James R. Carey's attempts to intimidate both Democratic and Republican representatives who supported the Landrum-Griffin labor bill when it passed the House by a resounding 303-125 margin.

Mr. Carey, who is also president of the International Union of Electrical Workers, claimed that since organized labor supported a majority of the congressmen elected last November, they should have reciprocated and rejected the Landrum-Griffin bill in favor of the milder Kennedy-Ervin bill.

But they didn't, so he sent letters to the 303 House members who voted as the majority bloc threatening to marshal the labor vote against them at the polls.

What Mr. Carey forgot, or ignored, was that the McClellan Committee had uncovered, in recent months, enough corruption and crime among the top echelon of labor organizations to incite the public, through letters to Congress and by other means, to demand legislative steps to halt the practices.

In other words, the voters had spoken since last November—though not at the polls—and a majority of Congress had correctly interpreted the mood of the people back home.

Had Mr. Carey kept his ear to the ground, he might have discovered that many of the rank-and-file union members were among those clamoring for Congress to pass restrictive legislation and rid the labor movement of any corrupt leaders.

Mr. Carey does not speak for the entire labor movement when he threatens political reprisals. He is speaking only for himself and others who would permit corrupt labor practices to continue.

Holding Out The Bowl

SIGNING the 4 percent sales tax into law, Governor Lawrence took the cash in hand and asked for more.

He would like another $97 million, please, to carry out the activities proposed in his two-year budget. The request was addressed to the Legislature, which does not have $97 million handy and which would probably not refill the Governor's bowl that generously if it did.

Mr. Lawrence, however, was not being unreasonable. The budget is the biggest ever, but it contains little that is not wanted by both Republican and Democratic legislators and presumably by their taxpaying constituents. The massive spending goes for education, welfare, health, industrial development, and maintenance and expansion of State services to which all Pennsylvanians have grown accustomed.

Cutting this budget is the proper function of the Legislature, and some cuts will be made. Even so, the Governor is going to need more than the new sales tax will yield, and the lawmakers know it. Several tax bills to provide extra millions are now in the works, all of them objectionable to those who will pay them.

The lawmakers will have to pick these over and make a choice, giving the Administration more, before they can go home. The Governor and the hundred and one State functions he represents are still hungry.

The Pennsylvania Story

Costly Delay

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Although Pennsylvanians now have the privilege of paying a four percent sales tax — highest rate in the nation — the delay in finally enacting the levy has been costly.

Had the levy been enacted on the books by the start of the 1959-61 fiscal period beginning June 1, something around $12,000,000 would have been collected during the 1959-61 biennium.

It has been estimated that for each week delay in bouncing the rate to four per cent, the down-the-drain write-off has been in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

There are those of course who shrug off the loss with the comment: "Oh well, that's just $12 million less we will have to pay."

It isn't quite that simple. Budgets are established for a specific period. Correspondingly, revenue, or income projections are scheduled on exactly the same basis.

Thus, if a projected tax producing item is delayed in final enactment — as in the case of the current tax program which so far has whittled nearly three months beyond the start of the new fiscal period — each passing day chinks up a fiscal loss.

As for the optimistic taxpayer who thinks he is "escaping" the levy by its delayed enactment, one of two basic courses follows:

(1) Either that much tax revenue (represented by loss through delay in enactment) was not necessary in budgetary presentations in the first place, or

(2) If absolutely essential as contained in theoretical budgetary submission, the revenue "void" must be made up somehow during the remaining compressed tax period — either through increased tax rates or additional taxes.

If the former is true then there was an administrative "goof" in the budgetary preparation and taxpayers stood to be hoodwinked through budgetary hoaxes.

If the latter is true, taxpayers are going to pay the gilded goose. Both premises—(1) and (2)—cannot be correct. It is either one or the other.

What happens by the end of the legislative session on the tax front will tell the final tale.

The sales tax is not the entire tax program for eager taxpayers of the Keystone State. It was only the basic or primary tax not in the overall revenue-raising song.

There are other collateral taxes in the mill designed to balance out the near $3 billion overall budgetary request of the Lawrence Administration.

Among the collateral or "other" taxes yet to be finalized one way or the other for taxpayers by the Legislature are such items as the one cent a gallon increase in the gasoline tax, ($63,000,000); doubling the bank shares tax and extend the 14 mills utilities gross receipts tax to gas companies ($32,000,000); and intangible personal property tax ($35,000,000).

The paper is going to be paid one way or the other. Either the tax loss will be made up, or so-called essential state services to taxpayers will be cut — and if they are so "essential" how can they be cut?

At this delayed point, the taxpayers are losing either way!

In Face Of Temptation

Dear Abby: My 19-year-old son has been dating a beautiful 17-year-old girl. Yesterday he brought her over here and she was wearing the briefest of shorts with only one of those old-time red kerchiefs tied around her top. I was shocked to think a mother would let her daughter go out looking like that.

The next day the girl's mother called me and told me that her daughter never had such a "roughing up" in her life. And for me to tell my son never to come over there again.

Abby, don't you think that when a girl goes around like that she is asking for trouble? I'm not making up excuses for my son, but he is only human.

A MOTHER

Dear Mother: A young man who's had the proper moral upbringing would not go out with a girl who was not respectably clothed — much less "rough her up." On the other hand, a mother who wants her daughter to be treated like a young lady should see that she dresses like one. It's always the peach that is easy to reach that winds up in the jam.

Dear Abby: I know this gag is older than the hills but some of the boys I know are still using it. They take you out for a ride in the country and then the car "stalls." What do I do? CINDY

Dear Cindy: When the car "stalls" — do likewise.

Dear Abby: My wife claims that because she has three children to take care of she hasn't time to do the washing, ironing and cleaning. When I want a clean shirt I have to go out and buy one. We have an automatic washer.

My mother had six kids and only a washboard but we always had clean clothes and my father was proud to bring his friends home. I wouldn't dare surprise my wife with company because unless she had a week's notice, the house wouldn't be fit to walk into.

I love my wife, Abby, but it's getting so I hate to go home. Print this: She'll know it's for her.

HAD IT

Dear Abby: A word to the wise is sufficient. The foolish require several hundred more — repeated frequently.

Dear Abby: I have a sister who is 28 years old. She shaves every day. She started when she was about 20 because she had a heavy dark growth of hair on her face. She is a fine woman and has a real good job, but she is so self-conscious about her face that she won't go out with any men. Is there anything I can do for her?

CONCERNED BROTHER

Dear Brother: Your sister should consult a dermatologist (skin doctor) or a reliable specialist in the field of electrolysis, which is the technique of removing hair by using electric needles.

Dear Abby: I have been wanting to write you my problem for a long time but I have been told that if I do not sign my name you cannot accept or answer my letter. My problem is so very personal that I would not want to have it printed anywhere. Please tell me through the paper if you accept letters without names. And what do you do with the letters after you get them?

MISS NO NAME.

Dear Miss: I accept letters with or without names. I never print a person's name without permission. If a writer wants a personal reply to his letter he need only to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. All letters are strictly confidential and are destroyed after being answered.

Dear Abby: You always stick up for women. This reminds me of a story to point up how all you women blame us for everything.

Some women were playing bridge at the Club when a man stopped by and said, "Have you heard, the Smiths have separated!"

In unison all the women said, "Is that so! What did HE do?"

The man said, "HE didn't do anything. It seems while Smith was playing cards at the Club on Tuesday nights, SHE was seeing a salesman. She finally ran off with him."

Again the women said, "Oh, that's what HE did. He left her home all alone while HE played cards at the Club. Serves him right!"

BILL

Dear Abby: Hold it! Are you implying that it was all the woman's fault? Don't whitewash the entire male sex. Or wasn't the salesman she ran off with a man?

Dear Abby: What do you do with a husband 60 years of age, who flirts with any woman or girl who looks at him? It is so embarrassing I hate to be seen with him.

Wherever we go he winks at the wives and guests and even the waitresses. At card parties, he stands up and walks through the crowd looking and winking.

I am tempted to leave him because his flirting is getting me down. He was never like this in our younger days. We've been married 40 years. Please give me some advice.

Inside Washington

Defense Spending To Mount

Washington — It is unthinkable that United States defense spending would be reduced because of a slight, tentative and temporary smile from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. The Russians have swung from "hard" to "soft" attitudes before.

Nearly all the members of Congress, of both parties, owe their election successes in part to avowed opposition to international Communism, and to pledges to keep America's defenses strong. There is not a chance that this hard-headed group of practical men can be won over by words and gestures from Russia which could be reversed as quickly as they were inaugurated.

However, even beyond the question of changing attitudes, there are some hard realities which will contribute to the maintenance of defense spending in the years immediately ahead.

America is in a transition period phasing out of the manned aircraft mode of defense and into the missiles and rockets era. Research and development have accounted for a goodly percentage of defense spending in the latter categories.

As the missile defense program phases into production and mass training, the extremely complex vehicles will call for a much larger percentage of the budget than has been experienced so far.

The outlook, therefore, regardless of whether or not cold war tensions ease slightly, is for larger rather than smaller defense spending in the years ahead.

Democratic race — Rep. Emanuel Celler, New York liberal Democrat, is being widely quoted on a pithy paragraph summing up his views of the Democratic presidential contenders. It runs like this:

"There's Senator Douglas; he's too old. Senator Kennedy; he's too young. Governor Meyer; he's too minor. Senator Humphrey; he's too talkative. Senator Johnson; he's too south. Governor Williams; he's too soapy. Stevenson; he's too often. Senator Symington — he's my man."

Jim Riley Says:

Dog Locates Missing Family Of Cats

Cats and dogs, natural enemies we're told, aren't always unfriendly.

Take the case told us by Nellie Burd, The Daily Record correspondent in Delaware Water Gap.

It seems that a litter of kittens were born at the Otto Gehm home in Marshalls Creek.

One day Ma Cat and her brood were among the missing. A search of the area failed to find them.

The next day a police dog belonging to the Gehms came trotting up to the house carrying one of the kittens safely in his mouth. A short time later the dog came back carrying another kitten safely.

Another search revealed that Ma Cat and her kittens had taken up residence in the police dog's coop.

Everybody is happy now and the kittens are well and happy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Rowe and daughter Susan, of Tannersville, are currently on a vacation trip.

They included the North Pole, in northern New York state, as one of their stops on the journey.

Mark Bloss, of Scotrun, recently proved to be a man of great kindness. At least that's the story we received.

It seems Mark and some friends went on a fishing trip recently, and as most trips feature — there was a time for sleeping.

Mark placed himself away in a sleeping bag and was soon in the land of dreams.

Sometime during the sleeping hours a mouse came on the scene. It chewed a hole in Mark's New York Yankee cap and then had the gall to make a nest in Mark's sleeping bag before morning.

This story may not be entirely true — but it makes good reading.

At least Mark's fishing buddies think it's pretty good, although Mark didn't think much of sharing space with a mouse.

East Stroudsburg High School's class of 1951 will hold a class reunion at Bartonsville Hotel, Bartonsville.

no inking the Reds would admit them. "The only way to find out is to try," says Magnuson.

Purpose of the committee was described as "designed to explore first-hand a number of matters." What they might be was significantly indicated by Senator Engle in a recent speech in the Senate on "Our China Policy Needs Revision."

In this talk the Californian advocated:

"We should be willing to negotiate admitting Chinese correspondents on a reciprocal basis."

"We should place our trade with Red China on the same basis as with Soviet Russia."

"Make it plain that while we have every intention to abide by our treaty obligations with Formosa, we will also not support any military adventures against the Chinese mainland."

"We should assume the initiative in putting the defense of Formosa on a broader international basis than it is now."

The U.S. and Red China have been negotiating regularly since the Fall of 1955. The next meeting, in Warsaw, between Ambassadors Jacob Beam and Wang Ping-nan, will be the 91st.

Following their last session in June, members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee were told that Peiping had evinced a desire for an exchange of high officials with the U.S., and had indicated Vice President Nixon would be particularly welcome. At that time he was preparing for his recent trip to Russia.

A so-called "export fair" will be held in Canton from November 1 to 30. Countries having diplomatic relations with Red China are being invited to send exhibits and "businessmen."

What Will Happen — This is what you must probably expect on the major issues still pending before Congress:

Labor Reform — There will be a compromise between the Senate and House bills, and it will be enacted into law at this session.

Housing — The House will largely go along with the revised measure voted 71 to 24 by the Senate, and this legislation will again be put up to the President. What he will do about it is wholly conjectural.

Super-Highway Program — An increase in the gas tax will be voted, but not the 15 cents urged by the President. At the most, it will be one cent as now pending in the House.

There is a chance the Senate may cut that to 4 or 5 cents a gallon.

Interest Rates — Treasury Secretary Anderson can get an increase of 34 percent on savings bonds. But that is all. He has been offered that by top Democratic leaders. But they are adamant against the interest boosts he wants on long-term marketable securities.

Civil Rights — Virtually dead in the House, where a Republican-Southern coalition is firmly stalemating this legislation, consists of four of the eight Democratic Committee members and two of the four Republicans. A majority of one is needed to report on this measure.

In the Senate, Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson, Tex., will move to bring this issue before the chamber sometime this week. Whatever bill is passed there will be limited in scope and authority.

This seems to be the season for drives. Golf drives, scenic drives, and fund raising drives.

The latter is the type of drive shared by everyone. Even the busiest person can't help but brush up against the different organizations which have gone all out to raise money for Laurel Manor.

The local Business and Professional Women's Club is seeking to raise its fifth $1000 donation to Laurel Manor. This time the women are sponsoring the "Kitchen Tour" to be held Tuesday and Wednesday. By buying a ticket for the tour you not only get the satisfaction of helping to build a worth while fund but you are able to take an interesting tour in return for your money.

In giving to another fund which is growing in the area, that of "The Poconos To The Coast Fund" you get the satisfaction of helping a group of men get the chance to prove what their team can do and also to let them know that win or lose they have the residents of the entire area rooting for them.

The team is the Twin City Poconos and they are trying to get to the International Softball Tournament at Long Beach, Calif. I don't know the members of the team but I see them coming into the Daily Record with win after win. They have the spirit and deserve the chance to see what they can do on the West coast.

Progress of the fund can be watched on Bob Clark's Sports Page. They have only until Thursday to raise the necessary $2500.

Good Sense Is Secret Of Successful People

By Anne Heywood

I used to think that behind a glamorous and successful person there was some magic ability, some lucky charm, some unusual attribute, some mysterious factor.

But the longer I live, and the more successful people I meet, the more convinced I am that the secret is usually nothing more mysterious than plain common sense.

I thought of that the other day when I was having tea with Leonore Baronio, one of the most successful landscape architects in the country.

Happily Married

Mrs. Baronio is an attractive woman who is happily married to a genius in the textile field and has a son and a daughter. She was originally a dress designer, but it was never very satisfying to her.

Finally, when her little boy was two, Mrs. B. decided to study horticulture, which had always fascinated her.

Her teacher was a good one, with a successful landscaping business of her own. When Mrs. B. saw how fascinating the field was to her, she asked the teacher if it would be possible to work for her, for free, and learn the business.

It was a deal—and after the other woman saw how dedicated Mrs. B. was, she took her in as a professional associate. Later, the teacher retired and now it is Leonore Baronio, Inc., Gardens.

Used Common Sense

The common sense came in the offer to work for the expert. Most people would long to do it, but would consider it impossible.

"I'd love to work for So-and-So," women are constantly telling me, "because he's the top in the field, but of course there'd be no chance." And so they never even ask!

But it's good sense to try—the kind of good sense that lies

Find Some Field

If your life is boring, and you're in a pale-gray, unsuccessful haze, resolve now to find some field that really fascinates you, and then volunteer to work for somebody in that field, for free, if only as a volunteer, one afternoon a week. The effect on your whole life will be revolutionary.

(If the field of landscape architecture and gardening interests you, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I'll send you my list of books on the subject.)

The Wyckoff Shopper

"The friendly store"
A.B. Wyckoff
STROUDSBURG, PA.

Sometimes I think working at Wyckoff's is like being the youngest child in a family of twelve. When we are called "The Wyckoff Store Family", it is an accurate designation. We are that, all right . . . and like individuals in all families we are surrounded by a flock of "brothers" and "sisters" who feel entitled to make suggestions, pass judgment, and offer advice that is not always as welcome as it might be.

Wear a new dress, and there is usually a co-worker who will advise you that the color is not particularly becoming. Go without your glasses, and literally dozens of your "relatives" will remind you that (1) you are straining your eyes . . . (2) they don't like you without spectacles . . . (3) they will ask whether or not you have followed the trend to contact lenses. Oh, there are compliments now and then, of course . . . but you know how families are! And while all this irks you at times, and you must swallow hard to refrain from expressing annoyance, you realize that in the long run it is pleasant to work among people who know you so well. Criticize they may . . . but when you're in the dumps . . . or down and just short of out, they'll swing into action and extend a helping hand faster, in many cases, than your own blood relation.

During the past few weeks, I've been told nothing short of a dozen times that some of my co-workers do not care for my hairdo. Frankly, neither do I . . . but I'm getting a wee bit tired of explaining that I'm trying to let my old permanent grow out, so I needn't be completely shorn before the beauty salon can curl me up again. Without a good, substantial perm, it's almost impossible in this hot weather to hold a wave or a curl. SOOOO, I'm struggling along, doing the best I can, and wondering if maybe I should wear a sandwich sign explaining the situation. Since mine is definitely a "growing" problem that cannot be solved (according to our Wyckoff beauticians) for at least two more weeks, maybe it's best to tell the whole story once and for all right here. It may even serve the purpose of explaining to some of our readers why I look as I do, when we have such a popular beauty salon in our store, and such a skilled staff of operators.

Believe it or not, while curiosity sometimes gets in my hair, so do the beautician's comb and "gook", and my appointment is already made for a few weeks hence. But while we're being personal, WHAT ABOUT YOU? Are you ready for Fall and all the wonderful new hats? If you are in the market for a wave, make your appointment today. There's a B in BEAUTY, and where our Wyckoff salon is concerned it's a very busy "bee".

Not that we recommend home glamorizing to the detriment of professional! But we do feel you should be told about the latest development in home permanents as introduced by QUICK. I refer to the "built-in shampoo". No longer need you wash your hair before giving yourself a wave . . . not even when you use hair spray. With QUICK, the solution actually cleans your hair as it coaxes it into curl. Eliminate all mix . . . all mess . . . and all odor, with the NEW Quick, in Regular, Gentle, or Super strengths, priced at 2.50 a can. Our Wyckoff cosmetic department.

Dynatherm Recommended By Weiss

M. F. WEISS of the M. F. Weiss Plumbing and Heating Co., Brodheadsville, says "You can pay more, but you can't buy a better heating unit than a Bethlehem Dynatherm."

M. F. Weiss over the years has installed thousands of heating units in homes in and around Monroe County and a good many Dynatherm heating boilers, and Mr. Weiss can tell you why. You'll get more heat from less oil. When you invest your hard earned money in a heating plant you want to be sure it's large enough to provide all the heat you need in the coldest weather... that it's modern in design... that it's fully automatic... that it operates economically... that it will require the least personal attention and a minimum of service.

Welded Plant

"The Bethlehem Dynatherm will meet all of these requirements... and more! Acclaimed America's finest oil heat package unit the Bethlehem Dynatherm is a completely welded steel heating plant with "Whirling Flame" principle that squeezes more heat out of every drop of fuel... that has the same heating capacity in a fraction of usual boiler size... that is as automatic as your electric refrigerator and television. And, best of all... you pay little more for the Bethlehem Dynatherm than converting your oil boiler."

Mr. Weiss further states that you can replace your present boiler for as little as $5.50 a week. That's a first class installation, complete—nothing extra to buy!

And, Mr. Weiss adds that your Dynatherm Unit will pay for itself in 5 years. In fuel

New Rake Needs Little Lubrication

ONCE-A-SEASON lubrication... the average farmer now has less maintenance with a new Super 55 Rolabar Rake, according to Van D. Yetter of Marshall Creek, local New Holland dealer.

Yetter explained that thanks to the use of nylon, phenolic resin and sealed precision bearings the typical farmer with about 35 acres will lubricate his Super 55 Rolabar Rake once a season. New Holland calls this "Time bar and reel bearings are sealed and require no lubrication. Other moving parts require lubrication once every 100-acres with one minor exception.

Safe Delivery

Yetter said the bar reel gives farmers the right amount of motion for smooth, leaf-saving delivery of hay to windrow. The Super 55's basket moves half as fast as conventional side rakes, and it rolls up even windrows for fast pickup, he added.

The Super 55 offers farmers fast hookup with only one hitch point. And, since the rake has ground drive, it can be used with any farm tractor.

savings alone! For further proof of this, M. F. Weiss Plumbing & Heating will furnish you with the names of families and neighbors that can verify this fact! What more proof do you need than this to convince you that a Bethlehem Dynatherm is the heating boiler for your present or new home.

If you have any plumbing or heating problems call M. F. Weiss for expert professional advice that costs you nothing... he promises that you'll be money ahead in the years to come.

Pink Shades Favored By Purchasers Of Paint

HOMEOWNERS in this area purchase pink shades more often than any other color in custom-mixed paints and in a greater degree than any other section of the nation except nearby New England.

Felton-Sibley Paint Co., of Philadelphia, said this was one of the current findings of the color preference report just issued by Color Corp., of America.

Felton-Sibley and its local dealer Hamill's Paint Center at 136 S. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, are participants in this national survey, providing monthly records of colors mixed for their customers on their "color compass" colorant dispensing machine. The machine is capable of preparing any one of 1200 colors in less than 30 seconds.

Blue-Greens, Yellow

The present report was compiled from over 32,000 retail paint sales recorded in the last six months by dealers in the U. S. and Canada. It gives the 12 leading colors in the nation, along with breakdowns of the six leading colors in eight market areas in the United States.

The "East" section of the survey, which includes Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania, shows that three shades of pink are among the six colors purchased most often here. Two blue-greens, and a lemon yellow are also included in the top six colors. It is of interest that customers here make a strong departure from the national preference for beige—No. 1 color across the country.

MUSIC AND ART—Orlando Capriotti of Martins Creek, age seven, provided music at the Outdoor Art Show. ## Quality Improved At Outdoor Art Showing

By David Ottaway

WHILE this Month's Outdoor Art Show proved smaller in the number participating and the quantity of work shown, there was a marked improvement in the quality and the technique of many artists as compared to July's exhibition.

A total of 53 artists participated but many of them left early Saturday afternoon.

The added attraction to the show was a teenage boy Orlando Capriotti, a Ted Mack Amateur Hour participant, who played an accordion Friday from 6 to 9 p.m. Orlando is a resident of Martins Creek.

Aiding in a review of the exhibition were J. Carroll Tobias, Bethlehem, and Sterling Strauser, a local artist.

Tobias spoke briefly on the following artists and their work.

C. J. Dreisback, Buck Hill—Specializes in scenes of local interest paintings in a definite impressionistic style. His coloring is very good and he shows excellent handling of depth and the balance of colors.

Jack Eagle, Allentown—Shows an interesting use of watercolors in a modern style. He has done several pieces of block printing, the first seen in this area.

Mary Schutt, Bartonsville—Is an excellent draftsman in a hard realistic style. Her work is very carefully done and her coloring good in most cases.

Joyce Powell Raymond,

Easton—Has studied with Peter Heiden whose color technique is occasionally visible in some of her paintings. She has developed her own effective style.

Ted Miller, Newark—Shows a use of pointillism but with his own personal modification of this technique. It is his first time at the Stroudsburg show.

Robert Doney, Pen Argyl—Often uses jazz and jazz players for a theme. He is a jazz player himself. He has employed a glaze technique in many of his paintings modifying colors applied before the glaze is used. In the case of his "Jazz Players" he has used realistic sketches first and then gone on to divide the canvas in a cubistic manner.

Peter Heiden, Mount Bethel—A well established artist showing wonderful color combinations in the painting of rustic, wood and seascape scenes.

John Lanyon, Kintnersville, Pa.—Is a copper worker. He does all his work free hand hammering and shaping the copper without the help of forms. His designs are all done free hand. A cabinet maker as a tradesman, he has made some very fine frames for his own water color paintings.

Sterling Strauser commented on the following artists:

Don Susich, East Stroudsburg—Does off beat paintings of people on flat, black backgrounds. An example is "The Ponderer".

Henry Evans, East Stroudsburg—Mostly does knife paintings showing a strong love of nature.

Agnes Dyer, Bushkill—Is inventive and paints highly personal and abstract work.

Dorothy Strauser—Does original hooked cloth designs recently displayed at the Everhart Museum in Scranton.

Elnora Houser, Shawnee and Mexico—Has just come back from Mexico and her paintings show a brilliant interpretation of Mexico in water colors.

Gloria Randolph, Stroudsburg—Was displaying duco paintings and many done in the drip technique.

Nancy Howard, Shawnee—Paints vigorous and colorful interpretations of flowers, the sea and children. Some are abstract and others semi-abstract.

Alice Sutton, East Stroudsburg—Works in a more conventional and realistic technique.

Natella Spragle, Stroudsburg—Wavers between the primitive and the academic. Her "Lone Pine at Mount Zion" is a powerful blend of the two.

Olivia Dreher, Stroudsburg—Shows vibrant studies of flowers and still life. Her Fruit and Bottle still life is exceptional.

Mona Fitzgerald, Snyder'sville—Displays flower paintings which show a devotion to gentle brush work depicting the softness of petals.

Four Hurt In Scranton Plane Crash

SCRANTON (AP)—A Civil Air Patrol pilot and three CAP cadets were injured seriously at 12:30 p.m. Sunday in the crash of their light plane on landing at Scranton Municipal Airport.

The injured all from Scranton, were Al Sochovka, 44, the pilot, and three teen-age girls: Arlene Fitterer, 18; Sally Pendrak, 15, and Patricia Garasovich, 15. Their condition was reported as guarded. They suffered fractured bones, cuts and shock.

Weekend Mission

The four were returning from a weekend mission—Operation Deep Dark—to test the effectiveness of the Pennsylvania Wing, CAP, in case of a national emergency. The injured cadets were simulated casualties of the mission.

Major Robert C. Merriman, base commander of Group 20, Scranton, said the pilot was making a routine approach to the airfield when the plane suddenly dipped, plunging into the ground.

The plane—a four-passenger Piper Tri-pacer—had been returned to service about a month ago after a complete overhaul. Edward McGroarty, state inspector of air crashes for the Pennsylvania State Police, Wyoming Barracks, is investigating.

Art Group To Meet

POCONO MOUNTAINS Art Group will meet at the Pocono Art Center, Indian Queen Hotel, tomorrow. The group will have a work session.

A model and still life will be provided. Anyone interested in drawing or painting is invited. The session is set for 8 p.m.

SPRAYING COUNTY—This is one of the trucks, contracted for by the State Highways Department, which has been spraying along state owned roads in Monroe County to control ragweed and poison ivy. Spray is harmless to other plants. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Lions Club To Attend Game

PORTLAND—Instead of attending their regular meeting Sept. 3, the Lions Club of Portland and Vicinity members will go to New York or Philadelphia for a night baseball game.

Robert Jewell and Morris Fazio were appointed to make arrangements.

The Portland - East Bangor Lion carnival last week in Mount Bethel was a financial success, Harry Seaman reported.

Portland

MRS. Charles Fleet of Fred-erickton, New Brunswick, Canada, is a house guest of Mrs. E. Randall Carpenter. Mrs. Fleet is the former Lillian Weaver of town. Mrs. Fleet will spend the weekend in Chappaqua, N. Y., the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bliss. Mrs. Bliss is the former Clara Farleigh of Mount Bethel. Mrs. Fleet will return to Portland on Monday.

The Republican Club of Portland and Upper Mount Bethel Township will hold a dinner meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Okey's Hotel, Johnsonville. Reservations are to be made with Mrs. Elizabeth Webb of town.

Fire Damages Engine Of Automobile

MOUNTAINHOME—An unidentified woman's car caught on fire here at the Buck Hill Falls forks yesterday.

William Krummel, Barrett Township fire chief, said electrical trouble under the car's hood started the fire which ruined the radiator. Damage was estimated at over $100.

Extinguisher—A fire extinguisher from a nearby garage was used to put out the fire before the Barrett Township Fire Co. arrived about 12:45 p.m., Krummel said. Firemen said they did not know the woman's name.

Assembly Faces More Big Hurdles

HARRISBURG (AP)—The General Assembly, past the lengthy tax impasse, still faces several formidable hurdles before final adjournment.

Chief of these is Gov. Lawrence's $1,800,000,000 budget for the two-year period ending May 1961.

Latest figures prepared by the governor's office indicate a 79 million dollar gap between budget requests and revenue estimates of $1,811,000,000.

There are two ways of resolve the difference—more taxes or less spending.

This is where the fight will develop. Senate Republicans are confident they can pare 40 to 60 million dollars from the budget. Lawrence says budget requests already are down to the bare minimum needed for essential state services.

The Democratic-controlled House Appropriations Committee has cut 6½ millions from the omnibus appropriations bills which are expected to come up for a vote this week or next.

Other Battles

Other major battles loom for schools subsidies and on a report that Lawrence will ask for a graduated increase in unemployment compensation benefits to $42 a week by 1961.

Some 28 millions from the 4 per cent sales tax, which became effective last week, is earmarked for increased school subsidies.

But school districts throughout the state are demanding more money.

A Senate bill introduced last week would add an extra 100 million dollars to the state's education bill for the biennium.

But Senate Finance Committee Chairman Edward J. Kessler attacked the proposal.

"We don't have enough taxes as it is to satisfy Gov. Lawrence without making major increases in appropriations," said the Lancaster County Republican.

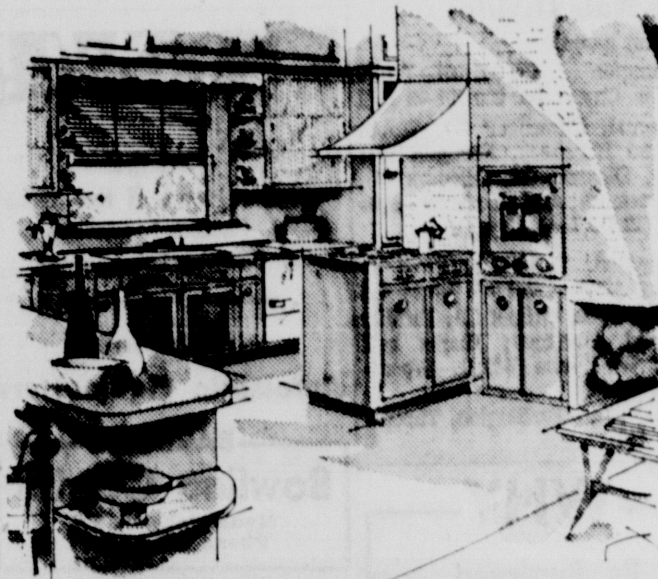

"I certainly want no parts of a proposal to extend the sales tax to clothing," he added.

AN EAST Stroudsburg Teachers College graduate who earned his Bachelor of Science Degree in 1942 from the "Hill" school, was named athletic trainer for Lafayette College teams.

He is Ed Rushin, a former head coach of three sports at Mansfield State Teachers College.

Rushin, the husband of the former Jane C. Quinlan of East Stroudsburg, branched into the physical therapist field following his coaching tenure at Mansfield.

He joined the Lafayette ranks after stints at Sacred Heart Hospital, Allentown, and Warren County General Hospital, Phillipsburg, N. J.

Presently he and his wife and two children—Charlotte 11, and Edward Jr., 9 live at RD 2, Washington, N. J.

Shrine Club members are a clanish lot no matter what difference in miles are between them. Noting that the Shrine Club of C Long Beach, Calif., is sponsoring the World Softball Tournament, the Pocono Shrine Club decided to do something about it.

They joined with scores of other non-Shriners in turning in a sizeable donation to send the Pocono Softball Team to the International Classic.

It seems that everyone is pitching in to assure the Poconos will wing their way into the West Coast City.

Howard R. DeNike, veteran track and retired soccer coach at East Stroudsburg Teachers College, will leave on an extended vacation next week.

The popular ESSTC mentor and faculty member will wind up summer tutoring this week.

Marty Baldwin left today for the annual New York State Coaches conference. Last week Baldwin was in North Carolina attending another mentor conclave in which more than 500 coaches were in attendance.

The Stroudsburg resident reported that an all-state scholastic basketball game climaxed the sessions which was headed by the entire football staff of Notre Dame University.

Baldwin also took in the basketball clinic at Adelphi (LI) Basketball Clinic. Ben Carnevale, Navy Court coach, drew the raves of everyone for his sound basketball advice.

Ray Davies will be a busy man the next two weeks. Today Davies will lead his Tobyhanna Signal Depot softball team in the Second Army Softball Tournament in Maryland.

Following this tournament Ray will return to Stroudsburg just in time to hop a plane and guide the Twin City Poconos in the World Tournament at Long Beach, Calif.

Davies is the same guy who tutored the Stroudsburg Little League Stars to the North area District 20 LL crown and managed Veteran of Foreign Wars team to the championship in the S-Burg LL.

Incidentally Tobyhanna had to bow out of the Monroe Softball League post-season playoffs because of an Army commitment to participate in the Maryland runoffs.

The Signaleers won the all-season title in the MSL but conflicting dates of the league's playoffs and the Second Army Tournament forced them to withdraw from the Monroe play.

The same is true of Twin City who which had to bypass the East Penn Softball League playoffs for the World Tournament because of conflicting dates.

Twin City—now the Twin City Poconos—have captured two straight pennants in East Penn competition.

Dempsey Party Optimism Cooled Off By Johansson

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP) — The early optimism of Jack Dempsey's party for a quick settlement of the Ingemar Johansson heavyweight boxing title rematch impasse cooled off a bit Sunday as talks continued in a plush Goteborg hotel conference room.

Dempsey arrived here Saturday after accidentally meeting the world champion at a London Airport. They flew here in the same plane, and the friendly welcome brought high hopes to the American party.

The famed Manassas Mauler, former heavyweight champion, was appointed promotion director of Rosenbush Enterprises last week and came here from New York to attempt to arrange a return title bout between the Swede and Floyd Patterson next month.

Friendly Talks

The summit conference began about 11 a.m. and after a couple of hours was adjourned for lunch.

"Things proceeded in a very friendly fashion, and considerable progress has been made," Dempsey reported.

Yost Grand Slam Sinks Orioles

TANNERSVILLE gunned its way back into a tie with idle Kunkletown in the Pocono Mountain Baseball League yesterday as rain cut short two contests and washed out two others. Tannersville downed Barrett, 14-3, in a contest called after five innings. The win enabled the Tanns to deadlock Kunkletown and set up a playoff for the seasonal title next Sunday.

West End cinched third place in the circuit by clipping Eastern Poconos, 16-1, in a game halted after seven innings because of rain.

A double header involving Lehighton and Saylorsburg, and Lehighton and Bushkill was postponed because of bad weather.

Boost Lead In Archery Conference

Poconos To Coast—$1704

Team Players Help To Spur $495 Weekend

SPURRED by a tremendous canvassing effort by the Twin City Poconos Softball Team, the fund to send the Poconos to the World Softball Tournament shot to the $1704 mark over the weekend.

The drive for $2500 to send the Poconos to Long Beach, Calif., for the International Softball Classic, Aug. 30 to Sept. 7 closes this Thursday.

The weekend's two-day total was $495 as the overall figure moved from $1209 past the $1700, a point the committee-in-charge feels will be able to threaten the three-quarter mark today.

With today, tomorrow and Wednesday and Thursday left in the rather short campaign, officials were highly hopeful that the drive will end on a successful note.

Submit Roster

Saturday night, Twin City Pocono softball officials contacted International Congress Headquarters in Greeley, Colo., and submitted their team roster.

Today another call to Long Beach, Calif., will be put through to make housing arrangements for the Poconos Entourage to the Far Coast.

The daily financial report for the Poconos To California Fund shows $122, first; $109, second; $183, third; $135, fourth; $125, fifth; $262, sixth; $263, seventh; and $495, over the weekend.

Double Sessions Spell Out Double Trouble

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first in a series of 12 articles on education. They have been prepared for The Daily Record by the National Education Assn. They will appear on an irregular schedule.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Double sessions—a last resort effort in some communities to meet the classroom shortage—can be endured for one year in an emergency but if continued for long can be disastrous to pupil learning and teacher morale.

This is the conclusion advanced by the National School Board Assn. in a new publication "What Price Double Sessions?" The pamphlet is based on a doctoral study made by Eugene Oliver which was concerned largely with what happened at one high school in Arlington Heights, Illinois.

That school was forced into double sessions while awaiting completion of additional facilities after enrollment jumped from 1,100 to more than 1,700.

At Arlington Juniors and seniors attended class from 7:25 a.m. until 1:10 p.m.; freshmen and sophomores were in school from 11 a.m. until 4:45 p.m. During the overlap period there were three lunch periods, so that one-third of all the students were in the cafeteria throughout the overlap period.

The effect on the educational program, Dr. Oliver found, was:

- A 24 percent reduction in the time students spent in class.
- Study hall time was greatly reduced.
- A striking reduction in use of library resources.
- A 27 percent decrease in enrollment in music.

- Students spent less time in school, before and after classes.
- Grades declined slightly, with the greatest loss to students who had been above average.

Most striking was a 54 percent reduction in student participation in extra-curricular activities, including athletics, dramatics, speech, music, publications, student council and student clubs.

Most of the upper classmen, who got out of school in the early afternoon, liked the arrangement; most of the freshmen and sophomores, in class until late afternoon, didn't like it.

The study showed that doubling up had no significant impact on attendance, discipline, or student morale. Faculty members worked an eight hour day, as usual, but there was an adverse effect on their morale, attributed to split faculty meetings and the lack of opportunity for the whole group to meet at one time.

Only one parent in four felt that the achievement of his own son or daughter had been adversely affected. Some saw advantages in the double shift, such as the added time for a part time job, help around the house or other activities.

Among the upper classmen, whose afternoons were for the most part free, 68 percent got part time jobs.

The teachers liked the arrangement less than any other group. They complained of lack of opportunity to give individual attention to students, before or after regular school hours. Curriculum improvement programs which had been planned had to be abandoned, and there was little opportunity for experimentation.

There was a slight rise in the per capita operating cost of the school, disregarding the building fund, but the rise was thought to be due to other factors than the double sessions.

Overall, the conclusion was that when there are double sessions "children receive less education and a poorer quality of education."

Note: Single copies of the booklet "What Price Double Sessions?" may be ordered from the National School Boards Association, 1940 Sheridan Road, Evanston, Ill., for 25 cents. There are discounts on quantity orders.

1 out of 10
of our fellow Americans has a serious mental problem. You certainly know at least one such person. Maybe it's even someone in your own family.

How can you help? By treating this person with understanding. You see, doctors say the understanding a mentally disturbed person receives can make the difference between further illness or recovery.

And as you give your understanding to others, learn to understand your own emotional tensions, too. Learn how to keep these tensions from making life unhappy for you, and those around you.

Show In Second Week At Bushkill

BUSHKILL — The Bushkill Players continue into their second week of "Dangerous Corner," on the stage of the Bushkill Playhouse.

"Dangerous Corner," a suspense story by the famous writer J. B. Priestley, co-stars Sid Garellick and Julie Craig with a supporting cast that includes Mildred du Lany, Beverlee Galli, Ane Steele, Jack Randall, and Dale Shields. The play was directed by Miss du Lany with a country house setting created by Bushkill's technical director, Roger Long.

Truth

The title of the play, "Dangerous Corner," refers to truth and as the three-act drama is played the audience learns what happens to a group of people when they begin to tell the whole truth about themselves and each other.

"Dangerous Corner" will be presented for five more performances tomorrow through Saturday. Curtain time is 8:40 p.m. and reservations can be made by telephoning LUther 8-9979.

Defendants Seek Change

HARRISBURG (AP) — Two defendants charged with defrauding the State Highways Department in cinders sales have asked the State Supreme Court to rule that their trial be held outside of Dauphin County.

Counsel for Frank J. Petrosky, Greensburg cinders contractor, and Earl J. Broker, Irwin, Irwin, contended that the defendants cannot obtain a fair trial in Dauphin County because of all the publicity connected with the Pennsylvania Turnpike and other cinders cases in Dauphin County court.

Petrosky and Broker are slated for trial in September. They are charged on two counts of false pretense and one of conspiracy to cheat the state in Westmoreland County cinders transactions.

Voters To Answer Three Questions On Election Day

ON ELECTION Day, Nov. 3, Pennsylvania voters will find three questions on the ballot, all involving constitutional amendments.

All three have been passed twice by successive legislatures, as required by law.

One proposed amendment calls for annual sessions for the General Assembly. In Pennsylvania the sessions are still held every other year, with the governor authorized to call the legislators into special session if he sees fit.

This proposal would limit the business on even-numbered years to raising revenue and making appropriations. In the odd-numbered years the general legislative business would be attended to.

Borrowing Power

Another question, if approved, would permit school districts, without the prior consent of the electors, first, to increase their borrowing from seven to 15 percent of the assessed value of taxable property and, second, to increase their indebtedness from two to five per cent of this same assessed valuation.

Under existing law only a favorable referendum at the polls can authorize borrowing and indebtedness in excess of the existing ceilings.

The third amendment would not disfranchise an elector who moves from one election district to another within 60 days before an election. The elector would still be eligible to vote in the district from which he or she has moved.

Party Leaders Agree

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael H. Prendergast, Democratic state chairman, said recently night party leaders had agreed that the New York delegation to next year's presidential convention should not be committed to anyone for the top spot on the ticket.
